

SHOW STANDARD FOR THE THREE PATTERNS OF THE RAGDOLL

With 70 points for type and appearance, it should be noted this is paramount over colour and markings

COLOURPOINTED

TOP VIEW

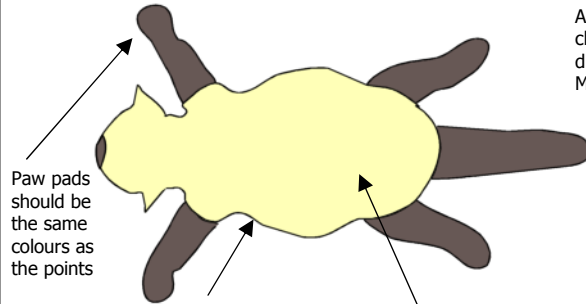

The nose leather should be the same colour as the points

The points should be well defined providing good contrast with the body coat

Cats may not reach maturity until 3 to 4 years of age. Some degree of body shading is to be expected and cats should not be penalised as long as there is still contrast

UNDERSIDE

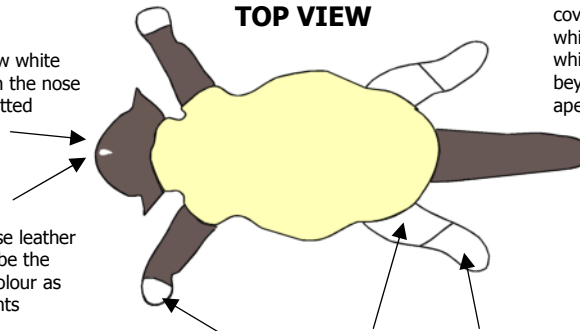

Paw pads should be the same colours as the points

Shading on the belly and chest should be a lighter colour than the body coat

A darker belly spot though undesirable is NOT a withholding fault.

MITTED

TOP VIEW

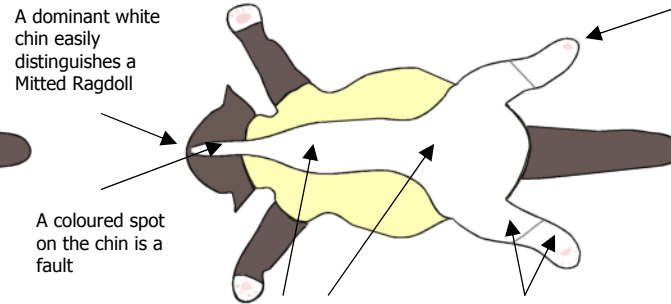

A narrow white blaze on the nose is permitted

The nose leather should be the same colour as the points

Mittens on the front paws should be evenly matched preferably extending to the angle formed by the paw and the leg

UNDERSIDE

A dominant white chin easily distinguishes a Mitted Ragdoll

A coloured spot on the chin is a fault

The chin, bib, chest are white as is the underbody from chest to tail

The back boots should be white to the hock but preferably up to the level of the underbody

BICOLOUR

TOP VIEW

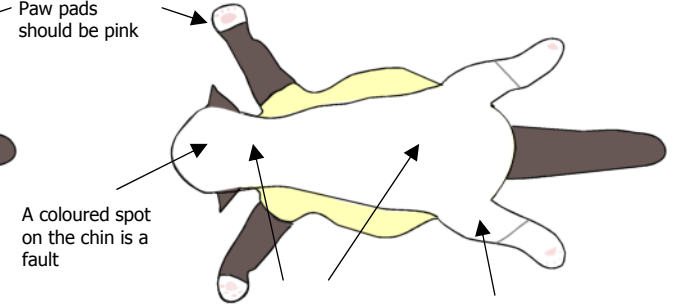

The mask should have a balanced inverted 'v' covering the nose, whisker pads and chin which should not extend beyond the outer aperture of the eyes

The nose leather should be pink

The front legs should be all white. It is desirable that the back legs are white to the level of the underbody, but allowance may be made for a small spot of colour on the hocks

Evenly distributed patches of white are acceptable on the back coat but are limited to not more than one third

UNDERSIDE

Paw pads should be pink

A coloured spot on the chin is a fault

The chin, bib, chest and entire underbody should be white

It is desirable that the back legs are white to the level of the underbody
